College Student Loves Working at Bayrunner

Sitting next to Michael Omps in one of her classes at Salisbury University led to Hannah Reddish's job at Bayrunner Shuttle's Salisbury office. Michael, who was featured in a newsletter last year, was already an enthusiastic Bayrunner employee. Hannah started as a receptionist in March of 2017, and still fulfills that role when needed; however, she's now also the weekend manager.

"This an awesome job for a college student. You watch the traffic and answer the phones, take reservations and dispatch drivers, but Caroline (Presburg, Bayrunner's overall manager), also encourages us to bring homework for when we're not busy," says the education major. "They also work around student employees' school schedules, and are flexible when we have exams," she notes.

Another reason the rising college junior loves her job is that "the people I work with make it fun. The drivers are entertaining and having people you get along with makes the job more enjoyable."

"We also have a lot of interesting passengers, including a number of regulars," Hannah adds. That includes an engineering professor who makes the weekly ride from Salisbury to the Greyhound station near his college. He stays in Baltimore during the week and returns on weekends.

Hannah also enjoys the travel stories from people who are heading out on cruises. And she recalls the couple who planned an extensive three-month journey through Europe. "I was kind of jealous!"

But in addition to older clients heading out on travel adventures, Bayrunner also carries a lot of college students from across the Bay Bridge.

Asked what clients like about Bayrunner, Hannah's first thought is the free parking at their office! "Customers say that it is very convenient for them, since we are the only service on the Eastern Shore, and that our prices are very reasonable, especially if you are travelling to Ocean City. They feel that $110 to get down to Ocean City is a steal," Hannah adds.

The National Folk Festival Slated for Sept. 7 - 9

The 78th National Folk Festival is being held in Salisbury, Maryland September 7-9, 2018. This exciting, FREE outdoor event will feature more than 350 of the nation's finest traditional performers and crafts people, seven stages of continuous music and dance, craft exhibits and demonstrations, a festival marketplace, family activities, and delicious regional and ethnic foods.

The Festival embraces the heritage and traditions of ALL Americans – from those whose families have been here for millennia to those recently arrived on our shores.

"What a brilliant idea Bayrunner Shuttle is. I kind of feel stupid for not using this before today. I fly from BWI for work a lot, and this is a gamechanger. Bayrunner is VERY affordable. It's about the same as mileage and parking, you get to chill for two hours, and get dropped off curbside. Great job to our driver, Dave. I'll do this again."
